The Sarah Isom Center Dr. Jaime Harker, Director Dr. Theresa Starkey, Asst. Director Lamar Hall, Suite D 662.915.5916 isomctr@olemiss.edu Hours: M-F, 8 am-5 pm	We perform both academic and service functions. Dedicated to promoting research and scholarship about women and gender by developing a multidisciplinary program of study, we help students appreciate the special concerns, contributions, and perspectives of women and men. These studies include an analysis of how gender intersects with other social categories, such as race, ethnicity, class, sexuality, age, nationality, and ability. The Center coordinates the minor in gender studies and a Graduate Certificate in Gender Studies.	We offer a sexuality studies emphasis to our gender studies minor. The Sarah Isom Center also expresses its commitment to gender and women's studies by reaching out to the community through a variety of programs and services. Here are a few of our past programs: Sarah Talks Student Gender Conference The Radical South Lecture Series Oxford Pride
Allies Program Kevin Cozart kcozart@olemiss.edu	We train faculty, staff, and student members to create safe spaces for the LGBTQIA community on campus.	Look for the Allies badges around campus. They are often posted outside of or in faculty and staff offices or centers.

Student Housing provides safe, inclusive residential facilities to students living on-campus. This is done through intentional learning activities, facilitated discussions, and community development.

We provide a supportive living environment for our residents. We have staff in place to support our students.

We have Community Assistants (CAs), Community Desk Assistants (CDAs), Graduate Community Directors (GCDs), and Community Coordinators (CCs) on duty in the halls to develop and foster a safe and inclusive community for all members of the LGBTQ+ community.

Violence Prevention Office

Office Hours:
M-F, 8 am-5pm
After Hours:

Crisis services through the hospital, UPD, OPD and Student Housing

We provide advocacy for students impacted by sexual violence, relationship violence and stalking by providing them accommodations and whatever they need to feel safe and comfortable on campus. I advise and accompany students who engage the Title IX student conduct process and/or the criminal justice process as well.

The most important aspect of my office as it serves the LGBTQ+ student community is identification of allies as students navigate the process after an incident of violence, from the right police officers to health resources, and providing accompaniment so the student has support through any barriers faced. I strive to ensure students understand their rights under Title IX as it relates to discrimination based upon sexual orientation and gender identity, and all survivors of violence and never pre judge students when they seek services from my office.

We offer clinical services, outreach programs and consultation services related to mental health and developmental issues that university students face. We have an after hours crisis/emergency service that can be accessed through UPD dispatch.

We offer individual, couples (if both are students) and group therapy for all students. We have a group for LGBTQ students called Unitas and a group for our transgender students called TRANS*formations.

Please contact the UCC for information. We offer consultations for students, faculty and staff related to mental health issues and outreach programs related to a number of mental health and developmental issues including stress management, identity formation and coming out. Please see the UCC website for additional information.

The CICCE works to foster an environment that is characterized by open and ongoing communication that deepens students' understanding of their own and others' identity, culture and heritage. It is dedicated to creating a supportive and inclusive campus environment that complements the academic experience, connects and engages students with the university community, and provides opportunities for success in a multicultural society.

We host many student events throughout the year including LGBTQ History Month, Lavender Graduation, and Pride Camp.

Check out our events calendar online for detailed information.
